CUBAN COFFEE STATION

Cuban coffee is known for its strong taste served in small amounts with excessive caffeine and sugar. The coffee beans are finely ground and dark roasted. The coffee is prepared espresso style.

What is Cuban Coffee and where does it come from? According to the Tea and Coffee magazine, coffee production was introduced to Cuban society in the mid-18th century. By the year 1790, Cuba was a main exporter to Spain; soon French coffee farmers fleeing the Haitian revolution established themselves in Cuba, furthering the coffee industry on the Island. The Island's environment of high humidity and undisturbed soils fostered the development of the industry.

By the 1820s, coffee production was contributing even more to Cuba's economy than sugar. In the years right before the Cuban Revolution (1956), Cuba was exporting 20,000 metric tons of coffee valued at $21.5 million and was producing its highest ever yield of coffee per acre (316.6 pounds per acre).

With the Cuban Revolution came the nationalization of the coffee farms and the decline of the coffee industry in general. Production levels during the late 1960s and 1970s were comparable to those of the 1920s. In the late 1970s and early 1980s, the industry had a slight recovery only to be devastated once again with the fall of the Soviet Union (Cuba's principle benefactor) in 1990.

2 Gourmet Coffee Servers will delight your guests with fine blends of exotic coffees from the remote areas of South America and Cuba. Our server's expertise will translate into informative VIP service, describing the beans, blends and not only serving, but educating your guests on the finer points of gourmet coffee. Of course, considering that this service is provided by one of Orlando's top catering companies, all glassware and silverware will be elegant and appropriate for the discerning clientele at this event.

ENTERTAINMENT – STEEL DRUM COCKTAIL HOUR

Steel Drum, or Steel Pan is the ideal one-man-band show for your next event. All of our Steel Drum Players are actually from the islands, so you will enjoy their Caribbean accents, which help set the island tone! These acts are perfect for corporate cocktail hours, authentic-island themed events and just about any party looking for multi-talented steel drum players, vocalists, musicians and entertainers. A nice bonus with the majority of our Steel Drum Players is that they are accompanied by MIDI (Musical Instrument Digital Interface) controlled sound modules. What this means in laymen's terms is that one musician sounds like a full band. Although Steel Drums sound wonderful by themselves, accompanied by the "computerized band", if you close your eyes, you will swear you are in the islands listening to a reggae / calypso band!
